Description

Original

Oil on Birch Wood Cradled Gesso Pane.

This piece is a series of flying endangered/vulnerable animals that are all looking like they are 'escaping', which is why the series is called 'Exodus', with textured backgrounds that reflect the tough reality they are all facing, they can be hung together or separately as a piece in their own right. This piece is of the honey bee - although not yet endangered, its numbers are falling around the world...
