Description

Conservation Framed with AR70 Glass.

Take hold of the tails of an aqua paraquet and dive down into the silvery sea, Mother Nature's extraordinary canvas of both the known and the unknown, that exist here together in the vast subterranean wilderness. Flora transcends its natural tundra as riverside marshes brush shark tails, and salt-soaked kelp yield sharp lemons, challenging the human mind as to what is real and what lies hidden in the deepest corners of the ocean. Invading land mammals meld with the creatures of the sea to provide a kaleidoscope of colour within this silvery sea scape. Retreating tails of mythological kraken disrupt metallic shoals, ancient turtles ride the seasonal currents and coral tipped sharks patrol the waters above their diminutive cousins, the elusive sting ray. With every glance, discover more and create your own oceanic mystery.
