Description

Conservation Framed with AR70 Glass.

The flower of life, filled with 100 tiny hummingbirds and a few other hidden extras. The sacred geometrical pattern known as the fleur de vie, featuring 6 sided flowers, is reflected in the shapes of the Allium on which this is based. A solar analemma (a pattern revealed if you took a picture of the sun once a month for a year and overlaid the images) is hidden in the flowerhead, representing the seasons and the annual renewal of life. Finally, inspired by ornate 18th century hand painted chinese wall paper, there's a single dragonfly representing freedom and new ways of being.

Giclée print on acid free archival Somerset Rag, made from 100% cotton fibre.
